The natural beauty of Snowdonia is as legendary as it is beguiling. A few artists are blessed with an ability to successfully interpret light and shade, none more so than Award winning Ruthin artist Harry Robertson. Harry's passion for his natural surroundings runs together with his empathetic compassion for the human condition.

In generously staging this exhibition of his paintings, Harry wishes that those viewing the captured beauty of life might wish to contribute to the vital work of St Kentigern Hospice in providing end of life care for the terminally ill within our community.
